The Community:

Union Park is a master planned community by Hillwood Communities in Little Elm, Texas. With environmental stewardship a top principle, the community includes a 35-acre park, greenbelts, natural ponds and numerous walking trails. The developer's LiveSmart principles also include "Sense of Community" so Union Park offers amenities and a busy Calendar of Events designed to bring residents together in social settings. The community offers the latest in home technology and is close to many area attractions, all while maintaining an authentic small town feel.

Marketing Objective:

The Information Center at Union Park uses brochures, signage and technology in lieu of onsite sales staff to provide visitors with information about the community. The main objective of the SalesTouch touchscreen presentation is to encourage prospective home buyers to learn more about Union Park's lifestyle and amenities through a self-guided interactive tour.

Denise Jordan of Anderson | Hanson | Blanton, Union Park's marketing company and CPS' project contact, says "the self-guided interactive tour highlights Hillwood Communities' unique approach to community development, as well as the rich amenities and area information, for the many relocating families that are expected to buy in Union Park."

Social Media Wall, the second technology component of the Information Center, allows Union Park to leverage their social media efforts. Consumer generated social media images combine with traditional marketing images and copy to create a visual introduction to the community's lifestyle and latest activities. The curated social media and marketing images randomly rotate on a large wall-mounted monitor. #GetSocial

THE DEVELOPER

From the Main Layer, visitors go to a section containing information about the developer including their history, other communities and an overview of their LiveSmart guiding principles. This information builds confidence in the developer.

SOCIAL MEDIA WALL

Union Park's Social Media Wall uses a wall-mounted 46" monitor. Traditional marketing copy and text combine with social media images to create a visual story of the community's lifestyle. Visitors get actively involved by posting pictures on Instagram and Twitter using #WhatsUPatUnionPark, and the images are then curated onto the Wall using a web-based administrative utility.
